PMO Perspectives is a blog with multiple authors presented by ESI International, an acclaimed international consultancy that “helps people are the world improve the way they manage their projects, contracts, requirements and vendors.” A relatively newer member of the PPM blogosphere (first making an appearance in March 2010), PMO Perspectives aims to support the PMO community and share best practices.

“PMO Perspectives is a blog for PMO directors and other senior PM Professionals,” says Alia Fakim of ESI. “Leveraging the insights provided by ESI Internationals global client roster, the blog will feature posts from ESI International instructors, subject matter experts, executives and special guests.”

PMO Perspectives seek an audience of PMP directors and senior PM professionals, and with the benefit of a variety of authors including J. LeRoy Ward, Derek Bell and Simon Harris among many others, the blog has a more professional and constant, recurring theme.

“We look to offer our readers 2-3 blog post per week,” says Alia.

Alia says the Three Part series on PMO in Hard Times ranks as the three favourites, with part 2 ranking as the most popular with readers:
